An Adventure with the Indian Dolphin

There were two explorers named Kawish and Nimit. They were studying the habits of the Indian Dolphin. They went in their jeep to Kanya Kumari. From there, they went out to sea in a speedboat. They went far out into the ocean where dolphins are found. When they dived into the sea and swam around, they could not see any dolphins. Suddenly, they heard a sound like someone crying. They followed the sound and saw a sweet little baby dolphin. Soon, they understood that it was crying for its mother. They tried very hard to look for the mother. Suddenly, they heard a dolphin calling. The mother dolphin came nearer and seemed pleased to have found her baby. She shook her fin at the explorers and took her baby home.

My Hike

We had our hike on the 28th of April. We went to Lal Tibba and Char Dukan. We ate chips and drank cold drinks. There was a church near Char Dukan. They were getting ready for a wedding and they had decorated the church beautifully. Then, we went to Lal Tibba and on the way, we climbed the grassy slopes. We saw two dogs at Char Dukan. We named the black one, Kalu and the light brown one, Lallu. We fed the black dog and it didn't bite us. We saw a graveyard. Ma'am gave us a treat of orange flavoured ice cream. Then we came back to school. We had a lot of fun on our hike to Lal Tibba.

A Dream

I was resting in bed because I was not feeling very well. My mother had gone to the market. Suddenly, I was lifted out of my bed and I was out of the window! I landed in a lovely meadow. There were many deer and cows grazing nearby and I went to pet them and play with them. I stroked each cow and deer, one by one. But, as I was about to stroke the last deer, I saw a bull come rushing at me. It shook me hard!

Then, I opened my eyes and saw my mother back from the market shaking me awake.

Rex

One day, we went on a hike. While coming back, we saw a cute pup. He was hurt very badly. We felt very sad. It had a cut on its tail and one eye was hurt. Tears were running down its nose. I took off my cap, put the pup in it and carried it back to school. Mr. Greene and MissLucas did not know what to do. So, we gave it to Ma'am Teron. Some of the girls were crying. I was going to cry but I controlled myself. Ma'am has kept it in her home and takes care of it. I rescued a dog and I am very happy. We have named him Rex.

A Frightening Dream

I was alone at home. Suddenly, I heard a noise coming from my garden. I looked out from the window. I saw two men dressed in black who were climbing up the wall. I ran and hid under my bed.
Both the men's faces were covered with a black cloth. I saw that they were burglars stealing my mother's ornaments. Suddenly, one of them saw me and threw a knife at me. I screamed loudly and opened my eyes and saw that my mother was shaking me. She asked me why I was screaming.
Thank God, it was only a dream!

Going Swimming

Every two weeks, we go swimming. Our class teacher, Ma'am Ragini Sharma and Mr Colvin come with us. There is a short cut from Junior School to Senior School. We walk in pairs. Everyone is excited.

Continued...

When we reach the swimming pool, we wear our swimming costumes and take a shower. Then, we wait for our swimming teacher, Mr Samundar Singh. When he comes, he tells us about the rules of swimming. Sir teaches us how to dive, splash with our legs and feet in water and how to swim. After an hour, we come out of the swimming pool, take a shower and wear our uniforms. After everyone has changed, we return to Junior School.
We are very tired but happy. We wear our sweaters and ties and hurry to the dining hall because we are very hungry after a lot of exercise.

Holi

Holi happens to be my favourite festival. I particularly enjoy the brightness of it that comes from the colours used. I keep a stock of every colour but red happens to be my favourite. The other ones, particularly, the purple is one I hate to use on Holi. It never comes off and makes one look so bad.

I also enjoy preparing gujiyas with my mother and sister. My mother keeps frying them in the pan while my sisters do the rolling, cutting and filling. My favourite part is to do the filling which gives me a chance to keep stealing the tasty khoya which is full of dry fruits. Eating the gujiyas piping hot, just as they come off the stove, is the most cherished moment of the festival.

I also make other preparations for the festival, like choosing an old and faded pair of jeans and a shirt. I think that having to apply oil and cream is the boring part of it. But, if that is not done the chemicals in the colour can be harsh on the skin and hair.

I had a bad experience after Holi once. I was so engrossed in playing with colours that I did not realize there wasn't a drop of water left for me to bathe. That winter day I had to wait for hours soaked in Holi colours before the water supply was restored. It was a very important lesson that I learnt that day - to have a bath on time.

I particularly enjoy the festival in the company of friends and relatives, that is, when there are lots of people to have fun with. The excitement is unmatched when everybody loves the festival as much as you do.

A Magic Umbrella

One day, while I was walking along, I saw something shining in the bushes. I went near them and saw an umbrella with the picture of a robot across it. He looked like me! He started talking to me. He told me that he would grant me three wishes.

He asked me what my three wishes were. I wished I had superpowers so that I could save people from danger. He granted my wish. Then I had superpowers. I saved people from trains crashing together and from many other kinds of danger.

Then, he asked me what my second wish was. I thought about it and said, "I wish that my friends and I become wealthy." Then he said that it was a very nice wish. He granted it.

The Magic Umbrella

Then suddenly, my friends and I were rich. My friends' parents and my parents bought me lots of things. After an hour, the money got over. Then he asked me about my third wish. I told him I wished time would stop for an hour so that I could do anything naughty. It was done. I did many naughty things.

After my third wish, the umbrella disappeared! I told my friends about my umbrella. They laughed. I laughed too because I knew the truth.
